Hodgson backs child care protest

Child care workers in Victoria and Haliburton Counties aren't going to stand for NDP Finance Minister Floyd Laughren's hack and slash tactics when it comes to the future of the province's children.

Responding to reports circulated in the Toronto press, about a dozen women representing the child care profession in Victoria and Haliburton Counties met with newly-elected MPP Chris Hodgson to voice their concerns.

The group met at the library of Langton Public School in Fenelon Falls last Wednesday evening.

They are afraid that 10 years of negotiations with various governments are about to be laid to waste.

It has been reported that the NDP's plan for comprehensive child-care reform is destined to fall by the wayside.

The government had promised to set aside $340,000 of provincial funding for a child care facility to be added to any new school that is built in the province. That program is expected to be axed. A promise to provide an additional 20,000 child care spaces will fall considerably short of that target.

The government has given the green light to pay equity for child care workers on one hand and supposedly plans to cut funding on the other. If that is the case, the funding that is available will have to be used for wages while equipment and other necessities will have to be put on hold.

Child care representatives fear that predicted government funding cuts will have a devastating impact on the quality and availability of child care in Ontario.

Child care officials want greater accessibility, but not just for people on social assistance. They want to maintain a high

Nudge, nudge

With a little nudge from the bucket of a backhoe, the facade of one of Minden's Main Street buildings crashes in on itself. It marked the end of a two week demolition project which saw the structure slowly cleared from the site. Built in the mid-forties, the building had been the home of a variety of businesses over the years. According to Paul Heffer, the new owner of the property, redevelopment plans are still pending.

Stanhope Fire Chief loses battle with cancer

Stanhope Fire Chief Robert Nangle lost his battle with cancer on April 2.

Bob Nangle took great pride in his service as a volunteer firefighter. He served as Stanhope Fire Chief since 1983 and as Deputy-Chief and firefighter for 10 years before that. In total, his contribution to volunteer fire departments, including several years with the Chinguacousy Fire Department before moving to the Highlands in 1970, spans 29 years.

He was a member of the Ontario Fire Chief's Association.

Nangle worked for 17 years as a resource technician at the Frost Centre, where his outdoorsman's skills were utilized in the sugar bush, on snowmobile trails, ski trails, roads, and other jobs.

Gerald Bain has known Bob Nangle for 20 years and served with him on the Stanhope Fire Department.

"Bob was certainly well respected within the department and by the community," Bain said. "He was dedicated, sincere and quite knowledgeable. He was a great man."

Stanhope Reeve Fred Gardner commented on Bob Nangle's foresight.

"He always looked ahead and moved ahead for the betterment of the department," Gardner said. "He was a quiet, but effective individual. I know the men of the fire department as well as his family and friends will miss him."

Dave Carr, one of four representatives from the Fire Marshall's Office offered a special firefighter's prayer at the funeral service.

Firefighters from Minden and Dysart stood by at the Stanhope Fire Hall while the members of the Stanhope department paid their respects, forming an honour guard at the funeral.

Bob Nangle will be remembered by many area people from the time (1970-'79) when he and Barb owned and operated the Kashagawi Cottage Resort, which is now Moonwinks on the south side of Ox Narrows.

Mr. Nangle was in his 56th year. He is survived by his wife of almost 34 years Barbara; son Glenn and his wife Karen and their two children Katelynn and Amy, of Gravenhurst; daughter Barbara Dale-Hern and her spouse Leonard McDougall and their two children Stephanie and Stephen of Bracebridge; his mother Dorothy of Toronto; brothers Donald and Gordon and sister Jean Nangle, all of Weston.

The funeral service was held at the Mary Magdalene Anglican Church in Dorset.

Police kept busy with break-ins, thefts and drug investigation

An investigation is continuing into a break and enter at the Minden liquor store.

The break-in occurred during the Easter weekend sometime after closing on Saturday night and when the store opened the following Tuesday.

According to the police, entry was gained through the back door which was pried open. The intruder attempted to open the business safe by prying the door off but was unsuccessful in the effort.

The thief left the premises empty-handed.

The incident is being investigated by Constable Mark McMaster.

Cottages hit

Police have arrested a Shelburne man on a number of charges related to a series of break-ins on Denna lake. A large quantity of stolen property was recovered following the investigation.

The same individual was also charged with the theft of a truck from the Ridgewood Ford lot in Minden.

The police have charged 25 year old Nevin Webb. The man was being held in the Lindsay jail pending a bail hearing.

Car recovered

The police have recovered a vehicle which was stolen during the winter from a property north of Minden. Following up on a tip, the police located the stolen vehicle in a garage April 4.

Charged with possession of stolen property valued more than $1000 is Edwin LeCraw, 36, of Norland.

Cultivation

A charge of cultivating a narcotic and possession of same has been laid against two Kinmount area people.

The charges follow an investigation and subsequent search of a residence north of Kinmount. The investigation resulted in the seizure of a number of marijuana plants and growing equipment.

Charged are 30 year old Kevin Blanchard and 24 year old Kelly Valyear. The Minden OPP detachment was assisted in its investigation by the Peterborough District Crime Unit .

A bomb?

Police de-activated a device found inside a cottage in the Gooderham area last week.

The OPP responded to a report from a Gooderham volunteer fireman who notice the door of a cottage had been kicked in just off the Contau Lake Road. Upon investigating, the police discovered a suspicious device just inside the cottage. The local officers requested the assistance of the OPP bomb squad based in Barrie. The officers blocked off the area and removed the device from the premises and deactivated it.

The cottage was not occupied at the time. The investigation continues. No charges have been laid.

Seat belt blitz

If you are the sort of driver who thinks that short trips don't require the use of a seat belts, or that belts are just a nuisance, you may wish to rethink your action the next time you take a seat in an automobile.

Later this month, between April 17 and 23, all police departments across the province, including the Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police will be involved in a seat belt campaign. The objective of the campaign is to reinforce the use of seat belts by all vehicle passengers.

Not only is seat belt use a good safety practice, but it is a matter of law as well. Since the first of this year, the penalty for not buckling up took a major jump. Disregarding the seat belt law will cost the individual a $90 fine and the driver will lose two demerit points.

The law was enacted to help reduce the number of injuries sustained by passengers when the vehicle in which they are riding is involved in a collision.

The police remind drivers and passengers, it just takes a minute to buckle up. Not only is it the law, but the simple action of ensuring you and your fellow passengers are wearing their seat belts could result in reduced injuries and possibly save lives.

Kinmount Post Office

Some time between 5:30 p.m. April 5 and 7 a.m. on April 7 the Kinmount Post Office was broken into.

The front and inside doors were pried open and an attempt was made to open the safe. The would-be safe crackers were unsuccessful, leaving without any ill-gotten gains.

Coboconk police say there appear to be two parties involved, by the footprints outside.

High school students waiting for a bus noticed the front door of the Post Office had been forced open and reported the incident to police.

MPP joins child care workers in protest over delays in program reform

quality of child care that can't be achieved in Junior Kindergarten. They want pay equity for staff without sacrificing the quality and quantity of equipment, operating budgets, craft supplies, training or loss of base funding.

"The actual taxpaying citizens aren't getting a subsidy," Hodgson was told. "We want to become a public service instead of just for people on sccial assistance. Most people don't know what child care is all about."

It was suggested that the system is set up to reward people who aren't frugal. Those who struggle to keep their bills paid; those who don't run their credit cards up to the limit — are the ones who don't qualify for a child care subsidy.

"The middle to lower middle class won't be able to afford quality child care."

Administration is continually increasing and the government isn't recognizing that its base funding doesn't take those escalating administration costs into account.

The question of Junior Kindergarten was raised by Hodgson. He asked how the child care workers felt about the NDP's commitment to implement JK even in those areas where it is unwanted.

The opposition to JK was unanimous. The list of reasons for the aversion to JK were many and varied.

Some cited the difference in ratio between children and teachers. In the child care system, the ratio is one teacher for every eight children. By contrast, JK classrooms can expect a ratio of one teacher to 20 children. It was pointed out that the teachers who would be charged with the responsibility of looking after 20 or more preschoolers are seldom trained to take care of children under the age of five or six years.

They feel that one person simply can't provide the care and attention necessary to accommodate that many youngsters.

Although Community and Social Services Minister Tony Silipo is quoted as saying the reform plan "won't proceed as we had wanted to do it," Hodgson said that there had been no indication to that effect at Queen's Park. "Nobody at Queen's Park has heard anything about it," Hodgson said. "There have been no Bills on the Order Table — no announcements."

Hodgson said that the PC party is in favour of equitable, affordable, accessible child care.

"What I can do is present your concerns at Queen's Park," Hodgson promised. "I'll tell them we have a problem that needs to be fixed. I'll make sure the message gets through."

Treasurer targeted

Child care workers have embarked on an aggressive fax campaign aimed at Laughren.

The Ontario Coalition For Better Child Care has issued an urgent update to all members urging them to mobilize and take advantage of the "window of opportunity" it feels has been afforded by the advance warning prior to Laughren's budget, which is expected by the end of April.

"We are asking all our members to act now to turn it around," coalition Executive Director Kerry McQuaig stresses.

Members are advised to reproduce the "Fax Floyd" message and distribute it to parents, encouraging them to fax it to Laughren as well.

The message reads: "Child care keeps taxpaying parents working and helps other parents return to work and training. Ontario's children deserve fair treatment from an NDP government. Act now to reform child care!"

MPP Chris Hodgson joined child care workers from across the riding at a meeting to discuss the NDP's possible abandonment of child care reform. Some of those attending the April 6 meeting were, from the left, Jill Wickins of Kawartha Child Care Service and co-chair of the Victoria County Child Care Forum, Beth Brew of Community Child Care Development for Victoria-Haliburton, and on the right, Mary Lou Lummiss of the Victoria County Child Care Forum.

Lightning strike leaves trail of destruction

Ken and Vi Walsh and Vi's 97-year-old mother Florence got a first-hand demonstration of Mother Nature's power on Saturday, April 2.

It was just after 8 p.m. and the Walsh family was sitting in the living room awaiting the opening faceoff of the Saturday night hockey game. Outside their Stouffer Street residence in Minden the rain was pouring down and lightning lit up the landscape at regular intervals.

The referee was about to drop the puck to start the hockey game when lightning struck the hydro pole in front of the Walsh family home.

" There was one hell of a bang and that was it," said Ken Walsh. "It just about lifted us off the couch. It felt like a 500-pound bomb went off in the basement."

The lightning passed through the wires into the Walsh home, blowing out the fuse panel, two television sets, a VCR and smashing dishes, a chandelier and numerous other items as it passed through.

The force of the lightning bolt carried it through more wires and into the garage where it made a shambles of the wiring, blew out all the lights and bounced around, sending everything in the garage into a tail-spin.

The header above the rolling garage door was broken, a pie plate-sized piece of concrete was blown out of the floor and a hole four feet square was left in the back of the garage where the bolt exited.

Fearing that the lightning might have started a fire, Walsh took a flashlight and checked around the house for smoke. An electrician was called and the wiring in the house was inspected and repaired.

Walsh had to get help from some neighbours to get the garage door open so he could get his car out. Even though the car was in the garage at the time the lightning struck, it doesn't seem to have sustained any obvious damage, other than one headlight, which no longer works.

Luckily, there was no irreparable damage and the hydro was back on in about an hour.

"We're just lucky nobody got killed or hurt," Walsh said.

Lucky strike

Ken Walsh points out some of the damage done when a lightining bolt struck a hydro pole just in front of his home on Stouffer Street in Minden. Although the discharge left a trail of destruction through the home and garage, luckily none of the three occupants was injured and there was no fire.

Ducks Unlimited is concerned with loss of waterfowl habitat across North America

More than 50 years ago a group of outdoorsmen, mostly waterfowl hunters, recognized the need to preserve the dwindling habitat used by nesting and migrating ducks and geese. They got together and formed Ducks Unlimited in the United States.

A year later, Ducks Unlimited Canada was born and since then Ducks Unlimited has expanded to include many countries world-wide.

Although hunters often shoulder the blame for decreasing waterfowl numbers, the greatest threat to ducks and geese is the loss of habitat, both for nesting and raising their broods and for resting places during the semi-annual migrations.

In the past, wetlands were often regarded as wastelands by farmers. They often filled prime waterfowl habitat such as prairie potholes and sloughs so the land could be used for crop production.

Ducks Unlimited has been working, with considerable success, to change that attitude. By working with landowners, millions of acres of waterfowl habitat have been enhanced by the bulldozer's blade instead of destroyed by it.

A typical Ducks Unlimited project in central Ontario would range from as small as 10 to 12 acres to as much as several hundred acres.

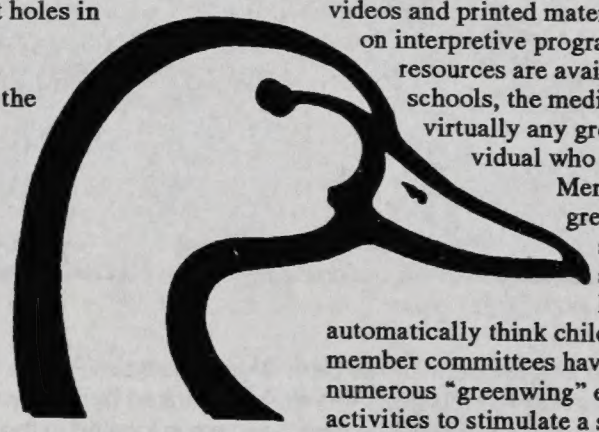
Areas that have become unproductive as nesting sites for ducks and geese can be rejuvenated. DU uses several methods to rehabilitate those areas.

The construction of a ring dyke or berm with a structure to control the water levels is often the most efficient method.

By controlling water levels, DU personnel are able to ensure that fluctuations don't leave nesting sites high and dry or underwater.

A common misconception is that DU floods the areas within its projects. In fact, that is seldom the case. The purpose of the control structures is to stabilize the water level.

Opening channels and creating small open-water pot holes in matted surface vegetation is another one of the many habitat improvement methods that DU uses.



Besides the threat of habitat loss through agricultural and urban development, DU has taken the initiative to deal with another problem that has arisen in recent years, purple loosestrife. The destructive spread of this noxious weed has been claiming wildlife habitat at an alarming rate over the past few years.

Joining forces with a number of other agencies, DU is working toward curbing the spread and reversing the damage caused by this weed, which chokes wetlands and substantially reduces their usefulness as productive habitat.

Education is also very important to Ducks Unlimited. The future of conservation depends on how well today's youth and future generations are educated.

By teaching the importance of wetlands to the ecological system and instilling a good conservation ethic in the younger generation now, Ducks Unlimited is helping to ensure a healthier future for a wide variety of wildlife species.

To that end, DU has created a variety of educational resources, from videos and printed materials to hands-on interpretive programs. These resources are available to schools, the media, industry and virtually any group or individual who is interested.

Mention the name greenwing to any staunch DU supporter and he or she will automatically think children. DU and its member committees have developed numerous "greenwing" events and activities to stimulate a strong conservation ethic in the younger generation.

The biggest greenwing event in the world is the annual Ducks Unlimited fishing derby, held in the shadow of the world's highest hydraulic liftlock in Peterborough.

A net is stretched across the Trent Canal below the liftlock and a quarter-mile stretch of the canal is stocked with rainbow trout of various sizes. Some of those trout wear tags that could earn their captors one of four bicycles or any of hundreds of other prizes.

For two days at the start of trout season in late April, hundreds of youngsters line the banks of the canal trying to catch one of the tagged fish, which enters them in the draw.

Everyone who catches a fish (trout or otherwise) is given something for his or her efforts.

The youngsters are encouraged to release non-tagged fish but for those who prefer to convert their catch to dinner, volunteers are on hand at cleaning stations to dress and package the catch. A strict limit is enforced.

To complement the preservation and improvement of habitat, DU also works with such agencies as the Ministry of Natural Resources on beaver pond management and erecting duck nesting boxes in areas where good nesting sites are scarce.

A beaver pond management agreement has recently been signed with the MNR to improve wetland habitat in Sherborne Township.

A local private enterprise that DU is working with is the Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Reserve. In it's agreement with the reserve, nearly 200 predator-proof nesting boxes will be installed and maintained and several food plot sites will be established.

Over the past half-century Ducks Unlimited has evolved from a small group of conservation minded individuals into a major international force dedicated to the conservation of wetland and wildlife resources through habitat management and education.

Hundreds of fund-raising committees have been established in communities from across North America to Australia and New Zealand. Thousands of volunteers world-wide spend countless hours organizing DU dinners, golf tournaments, turkey shoots, fishing derbies and a host of other events in support of the Ducks Unlimited cause.

Haliburton Highlands chapter of Ducks Unlimited formed

Ducks Unlimited Canada has a new chapter in the Haliburton Highlands.

Organization of the first Haliburton Ducks Unlimited Dinner has begun. A committee has been formed and the date and venue have been confirmed.

Jerry Walker, chairman of the recently-formed Haliburton DU chapter, reports that the dinner and auction will be held at the Wigamog Inn on Thursday, August 18.

Ducks Unlimited dinners are more than just sitting down to a meal. The Haliburton event, like most others, will feature a live auction and silent auction as well as regular raffles and something known as a Grand Slam raffle.

Committee members will be approaching local businesses for donations of products and services for the auctions and raffles. In addition, Ducks Unlimited will be providing numerous limited edition prints and other items that are only available at DU functions.

The Haliburton DU Committee has a nucleus of volunteers who have offered their time and expertise to get the first local event off the ground.

Jerry Walker is the chairman of the committee. Peter Hynard has taken on the secretarial duties and the treasurer is Lorne Hoppenreys.

Wendy Gunning will chair the arrangements committee. Publicity will be handled by Jerry Grozelle and the ticket chairman is Joe Iles.

The auction and raffle committee chairperson hasn't been appointed yet, although Hynard, Bill Hutson, Barb Boland and Jack Brezina's names have been added to the list of potential helpers.

Other committee members include Bill Geddis and Ted Vasey.

The committee is still in need of volunteers to help organize the event. Anyone who is interested in getting involved with this committee should contact Jerry Walker at 457-2375 (business) or 457-3134 (home).

Ducks Unlimited is a non-profit organization dedicated to the preservation and enhancement of wetland habitat.

But ducks and geese aren't the only wildlife that benefit from DU's wetlands habitat improvement projects. Song birds, great blue herons and birds of prey are among the many non-game species that thrive in areas maintained by Ducks Unlimited, as do reptiles, fish, and mammals such as beavers, muskrats, otters and even deer and moose.

New restaurant for Minden's Main Street

After a month or more of renovations and complete redecorating, the Village Donuts and Family Restaurant on Minden's Main Street opened it doors this week.

Owned by John and Glenda Cowling, the community's newest eatery is located in the former K & A Restaurant location next to Stedmans. The couple has operated the very popular Village Donuts in Haliburton Village for a number of years and when the Minden restaurant became available, they decided to open a second location here.

The building has undergone a complete redecoration. Those passing on the street have noticed the bright colour scheme on the building's facade, accented with an awning and new sign.

Inside, patrons will find a bright and cheery atmosphere. A new counter at the front, where take out coffee and food service will be offered, provides a display area for the many varieties of donuts featured daily. Colourful Tiffany lamps hang over each table, providing patrons with a quiet place to relax over a coffee or a meal. There is seating for 52.

Don't be fooled by the word "donuts" in the name. Yes, they are a featured items at this new restaurant, but this is not just a donut shop. A glance at the menu shows that the restaurant is offering a wide and varied selection. The bill of fare includes everything from sandwiches to full course dinners with all the trimmings.

All items are available for take out as well and a children's menu is available.

The Village Donuts and Family Restaurant is open seven days a week, from 6 a.m. on weekdays, 7 a.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday. They close at 8 p.m. Sunday to Tuesday and 10 p.m. Wednesday to Saturday.

Another opening

Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Bern Berry's services were called upon to officially open the Village Donuts and Family Restaurant. Sharing the moment, the reeve is flanked by the owners Glenda and John Cowling and joined by Austin Real Estate sales agent Bull Kulas. The new business is located in the former K & A Restaurant building.

Environment first

The members of the Haliburton Forest Owners Association recently upped the ante in their ongoing battle with the provincial government.

The group announced last week that if it cannot reach an equitable settlement with the province by this fall, it will close the gates to the public.

The confrontation with the provincial government is over the rate at which forest land in the county is taxed. According to the association, the tax rate is determined by the potential land use, not by its actual use. They claim this results in a group of property owners being penalized for, in many cases, providing a valuable public service.

As pointed out in the press release published in last week's edition of The Times, the privately held forest lands in the Highlands provide the backdrop the community uses to attract visitors. The rolling hills carpeted with many species of trees are a major part of the aesthetic attraction of the Highlands. They also serve an environmental storehouse, providing shelter for countless animals, birds, insects and plants. The forests play a vital role in maintaining the quality of our lakes and rivers. Their economic contribution to the county comes from their aesthetic value. But more importantly to us all, they are environmental treasures to be nurtured and preserved.

If a plan were announced to develop all forested property in the county, there is little doubt the community, both here in the Highlands and around the world would rise up in protest. While that possibility is not an immediate concern, it does point out how important and valuable the forest resource is, exactly as it exists now. It also illustrates the dilemma in which the landowners now find themselves.

The community wants as much of the forest as possible to be preserved and yet it penalizes those who hold title to the land by demanding a realty tax that exceeds the monetary return the land can be expected to generate. The net result will be to force existing property owners into a development process that will not be good for the environment nor the long-term economic health of the community. It might force them to abandon their ownership to well-heeled owners, who could have little interest in allowing the public to share the resources they call their own.

The association's threat to close public access is a dramatic move which should be of concern to everyone. Since the consequences of such action would be immediate and visible, it has chosen this method to draw the public's attention to its problem. The community should take the threat seriously, but it shouldn't be blinded to the underlying cause for the action.

It is time for the provincial government to respond to the land owners' concerns and put the needs of the environment at the top of their list of priorities.

Hodgson's stand unfair to same-sex couples

Editor:

I would like to address this letter to Chris Hodgson, the newly elected MPP for Victoria and Haliburton Counties. On Friday March 18, 1994, I heard your comments regarding same-sex benefits on CBC Radio. I believe you said the concern was not a homosexual one, but rather an economic one.

Your comments following this statement were of concern to me. I believe you said, financially, the government can only look after the "basics" and not support to "special interest groups". Am I to assume that a special interest group is an assemblage of people with certain needs that do not apply to the majority of people? May I ask you then, who does not belong to a special interest group, but is included in the "basics", therefore being entitled to financial assistance or benefits from the government?

I will examine the distinctive groups in Canada to decide who qualifies as "basic". Immigrants are definitely a special interest group, as they often need special language and cultural programmes and exemptions, helping them to adjust to their new home. Aboriginals also qualify, requiring special considerations, as they chose to live on National reserves and endeavour to stop the genocide that is occurring to their culture and their people.

People with mental and physical challenges require exceptional "privileges" such as ramps, adjustable phones and special washrooms to allow them to partake in "basic" society. People of different race request special programmes to increase racial awareness and help stop racism, making their interests special.

People in a low income bracket belong to a special interest group, as they often need special financial assistance, such as in your constituents' area the government funded educational program Futures in Haliburton. This program enables people to retrain for jobs, giving them pride and allowing them to contribute to "basic" society.

Many of your constituents are elderly. They often, through no fault of their own, need special services such as home care and meals on wheels to help them lead a healthy life. Are you about to take their "privileges" away? It has long been known that women are a special interest group. We demand work place equity, safety facilities and programs and laws that protect us from sexual discrimination and violation.

So, Mr. Hodgson, who is left? White, middle to upper class men? These people also comprise a special interest group, as they have often been blamed for being discriminatory, especially in the work place, simply because of their colour and "class".

The point Mr. Hodgson: Everyone can belong to a special interest group. I recognize the government's predicament. Realistically, they cannot financially assist all the needs of special interest groups, but rather attempt to distribute the money fairly among the groups. Which bring us back to the same-sex benefits. Since everyone somehow belongs to a special interest group, the problem you gave with the same-sex benefits is a homosexual one. You have decided that this special interest group is less important than the others, and I believe it is solely based on the members' sexual orientation. The Canadian Bill of Rights states that people should not be discriminated against on the basis of "race, national origin, colour, religion or sex. People in same-sex relationships are only asking to be treated fairly, and not to be discriminated against due to what sex they are, which is exactly what you are doing.

You feel you are simply representing the view of those who elected you. Since you consider them to be the "basics" of society, perhaps you feel you could support a program for them entitled "Equality".

Dancing locally?

Editor:

Shop locally? Try dancing locally!

During our search for accommodating a line dancing group, we have met some of the most helpful and community-oriented people. All with the same question, why not use OUR Community Centre?

Just to clear up a few matters with all interested persons, we have as a group and as individuals, tried to rent OUR community centre on several occasions. We were declined the rental by the Arena Manager and Recreation Committee due to the possible scuffing of the floor, unless we agreed to sign a waiver to indicate "if there would be scuff marks the contract would be terminated." The main concern by the arena manager specified the flooring needed more maintenance and therefore the manpower would be increased and due to cut-backs, it was not feasible.

I appreciate that our community centre costs are enormous but how can the community benefit from the structure ? If you can't use it - why have it?

Getting the lead out on the Information Highway

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

Out, out damn ALT, CTRL, MERGE and MACRO DEFINE

So. Is there a computer in your life?

If this was a kitchen table instead of a newspaper column, I know exactly what I'd see when I asked that question.

Ten percent of you would nod smugly. Of course you have a computer. Used one for years. Don't know how you ever get along without it.

Twenty percent of you would waggle your heads apologetically. Yeah, you work with a computer alright, but you don't want to brag about it. In fact, you don't much like even thinking about it.

The other seventy percent of the audience? Forget them. They've already flipped the page and moved on toward the Sports Section.

Computers. They've invaded all our lives, whether we love 'em or loathe 'em. Computers govern our grocery purchases, our income tax returns, our traffic lights.

It's an amazing development when you think about it. When I was knee high to a spreadsheet, the only computer in the world was a multi-million dollar monster called UNIVAC, so big and so complex it took up an entire city block in up-state New York.

Forty years later I can walk into Radio Shack and buy a machine that does twice the work. And I can pay for it with a week's salary and carry it out of the store in one hand.

Some experts feel the advent of the computer is as big a deal to the development of humankind as the discovery of fire or the invention of the wheel.

They could be right. All I know is, it has not been love at first sight. Oh, kids seem to take to the computer naturally, almost genetically. But a lot of "older folk"--and I reluctantly count myself among them --instinctively resist the computer tidal wave that is engulfing us.

We resist for a number of reasons. For one thing the language of the computer is not exactly seductive. Look at a computer keyboard and you see alien inscriptions such as SHELL, SETUP, ALT, CTRL.

Not to mention the peremptory commands like TABS, ALIGN, MERGE CODES, END FIELD, and MACRO DEFINE.

Secondly, there's the sheer, mind-blurring instability of the Computer World. Hardware and software innovations arrive at warp speed and yesterday's state of the art wonders are whisked into oblivion in a flash. Everyone I know is afraid to buy anything new. They know it'll be obsolete before they get the wrapping paper off.

We feel like so many CCM one speed bicycles quivering on the soft shoulder of the famous Information Highway.

Ah, yes. The latest buzz phrase in the Computer World. The Information Highway is the thoroughfare all of us are supposed to be travelling, along with our computers, our modems and our Internet access codes.

What is the Information Highway exactly? Where does it run? Is there a cloverleaf that will drop me off in my home town? How about Food, Fuel and Accommodation?

If things get scary, can I make a U-turn and go back to the good old gravel secondary roads?

If these questions about the Brave New disc Operating System World perplex you, allow me to introduce the Lead Pencil Club.

The Lead Pencil Club describes itself as 'a pothole on the Information Highway'. Members of the club vow to abstain from E-mail, voice mail, and fax machines. The club's Credo warns that if technophiles (read computer nerds) have their way, "We will have raced at incredible speeds on the Information Superhighway to reach our final destination--nothing."

On the Street

by Times Staff

Spring seems to be a time of rejuvenation, and the local business community appears to be a part of it. As noted in the Times over the past few weeks, several new businesses have opened and a number of others have relocated.

While there are still some dark clouds around, there seems to be more sunshine showing through the economic sky since the new year. A new feeling of optimism appears to be seeping through the community, which can only bode well for the local economy.

COUNTRY MAGIC

While many of Minden's Main Street changes have been fairly obvious, Country Magic has quietly undergone a major interior refurbishing. The sales area has been expanded with the basement section being opened for retailing. You'll find the fabrics and crafts on this new lower level. Customers will find easy access to the lower level via a wide staircase from the main floor.

NORTHSHORE

They didn't say what Florida shore they were on while they were down south, but Elinor and Bob Patton have returned to the Northshore....Lawn and Garden store, that is,at Highway 35 and South Water Street in Minden. Welcome back.

SPOT 97

Although the date hasn't be set, the Spot 97 Sports Store will be moving to the former IGA building on Main Street. Owner Brian Shaw also has plans to install the popular batting cages next to the building. Other spaces in the building, which served for a number of years as the Archie Stouffer Primary School, will be available for rent as well.

SUBWAY SOON

No, its not a new transit system, but rather the imminent opening of one of the most popular submarine sandwich franchises in Canada. Kim and Jerry Campbell have picked up the franchise for Minden. Located next to General Lee's on Highway 35, the newest eatery should be opening soon.

PERFECT PRINTS

Talk about a make-over! Perfect Prints in the Heritage Plaza has all but completed an interior renovation. With new counters, a bright new colour scheme and some interesting touches, its like a whole new store. Congratulations Laurie Roberts.

ON YOUR MARK'S

One of Haliburton's popular spots for a cup of coffee and a good chin-wag is due to re-open soon. Mark Brohm, who was the chief cook and bottle washer in the Mark's Cafe of several years ago is busy putting the finishing touches on his latest coffee shop/restaurant. The new Mark's will be right where the old Mark's was, in the spot formerly occupied by the Haliburton Re/Max office.

SID STAMP FUELS

Key lock services at Sid Stamp Fuels, at the corner of Highway 35 and 121 have been expanded. Those contractors and truckers who use marked diesel fuel in their vehicles for off road use, can now take advantage of the convenience of 24 hour fill-ups

DOMINION HOTEL

While they were tearing down one structure on the east side of the street, the venerable Dominion Hotel, closed for the past six months or so, was getting a face lift. New siding has made a startling change to the building's facade while the owners were busy last week re-shingling the roof. It's great to see the activity around the building.

ITS ABOUT TIMES

Meanwhile, Times owner Jack Brezina has announced he was suitably embarrassed by the comments contained in last week's editorial regarding his building. Plans are in the works to join the refurbishing effort currently sweeping through the community. More on that in future reports.

Minden Rotary donates large print books

The Rotary Club of Minden has made another substantial donation to the large print book collection of the Haliburton County Public Library System. At the moment, the new titles are available through the Minden branch.

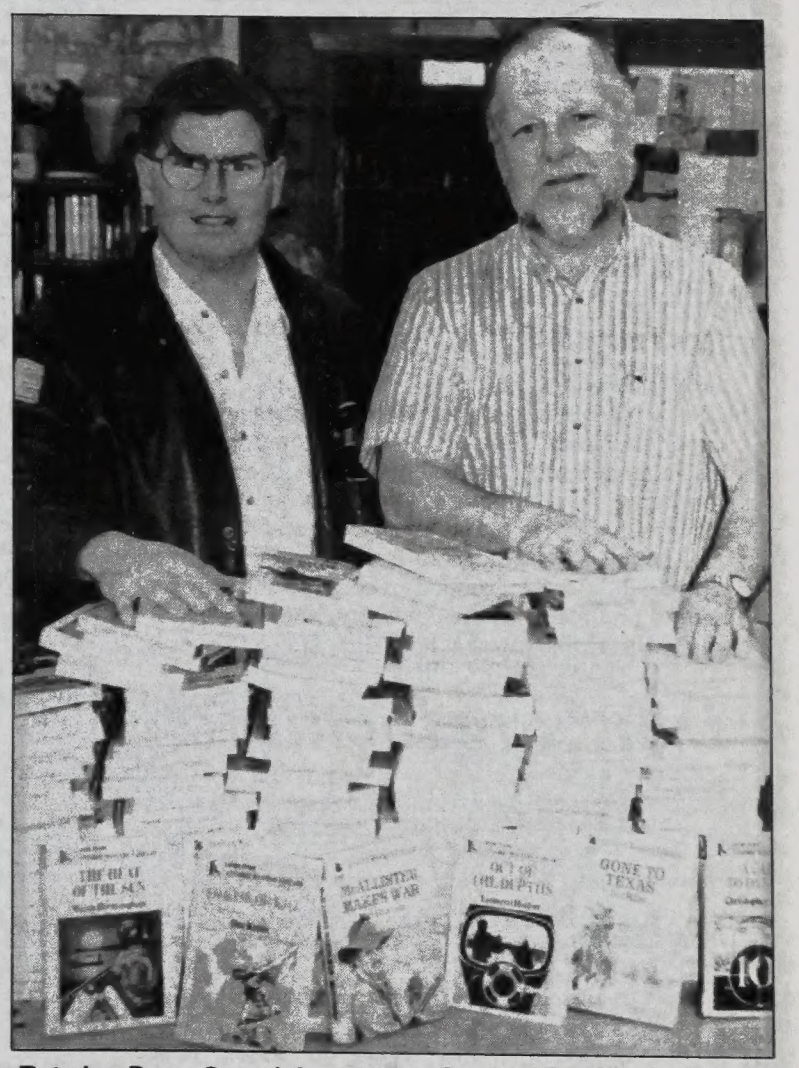
The club provided a $2000 donation to the Haliburton County Library Board late in 1993 to purchase these materials. The selection of titles was made on the basis of interest and with reference to the material already within the collection.

Joel Levis, director of the Haliburton County Library System, expressed his appreciation to the Minden Rotary Club for their financoial support. "It is through contributions such as these that we are able to achieve our goals and objectives as a public library, a unique organization within the community. While public libraries are funded to a large extent by the province, it is especially gratifying to have community support of this nature at any time and not just when we are trying to stretch our budget as far as possible. It is a healthy and progressive community that chooses its public library in many ways and we are grateful that the Rotary Club of Minden has stepped forward to help us provide the best possible public library services that we can."

"It is through support like this that we are able to ensure individuals with vision problems can still enjoy the wonders that only books can bring," Levis concluded.

While the new books will be initially installed at the Minden branch, they are available to all library patrons through the Board's commitment to resource sharing.

The Minden club has donated large print books to the county system on a number of occasions. Spokesman Barry Cray noted the donation was one of a number of ways the local service club is assisting the community. "We are pleased to make these books available to the public through the library system," he concluded.



Rotarian Barry Cray, left, presents County Librarian Joel Levis with the club's latest donation of large print books.

RESCUE BREATHING: 6 BASIC STEPS

1 Shake and shout gently. Shake the person to see if he is conscious. Ask, "Are you OK?" If there is no response:

2 Call for help and tilt the head back gently, lift the chin to open the airway.

3 Look, listen & feel. Look at the chest to see if it is rising and falling. Listen for the sound of breathing. Feel for air escaping the mouth with your hand or cheek. If you cannot see, hear or feel breathing:

4 Pinch the nose and make a seal with your mouth on the victim's mouth and give two full breaths.

5 Turn your head and look, listen and feel.

6 Give a breath every 5 seconds. Continue until someone takes over from you.

17th annual Coby Islanders Hockey Tournament

by Jerry Grozelle

Bouncing puck: Gooderham netminder Jason Stoughton makes a grab for the bouncing puck during the Blue Light Over 30 final of the 17th annual Coby Islanders Hockey Tournament on Easter Weekend. The Gooderham Glen Sharpley Sports Imperials blanked the Toronto Stoner Trail Blazers 4-0 to earn the division's top honours. Fifty-six teams played in Minden, Haliburton and Wilberforce over the course of the three-day tournament.

Fifty-six men's hockey teams converged on Minden, Haliburton and Wilberforce for the 17th annual Coby Islanders Hockey Tournament on Easter weekend. An estimated 1,500 players and spectators enjoyed some high calibre hockey action throughout the weekend.

The arenas were kept busy from Friday to Sunday as teams from across the province competed for top honours in 11 divisions.

The tournament ran as smoothly as a 56-team event can be expected to run. Officials at the Minden Community Centre were forced to do some scrambling to find a part to repair the brine pump on the ice making plant on the Saturday. Tournament organizers also had to do some juggling to find ice for six games while a part was borrowed from the Fenelon Community Centre's ice plant.

They (arena staff) did a really good job of getting it going again," said tournament convenor Pat Russell.

Russell has been in charge of the tournament since the beginning when there were six teams.

"I've seen some of the same faces every year for the past 17 years," he said.

The tournament has been constantly expanding. Last year there were 50 teams, six less than the 1994 event.

"You might say it's become an institution," Russell said.

Russell says that preparations for the tournament get started in November, more than five months before the annual Easter Weekend event.

This year's tournament saw more than $6,000 in cash and another $3,000 to $4,000 worth of Labatt prizes awarded.

Besides the entertainment value the tournament provided, the influx of players and their families had a positive impact on the local economy. Most of the players from the 56 teams and their families were from out of the area. They spent money on accommodation and meals in the Highlands and many other businesses benefitted from the extra "tourist" dollars as well.

Top honours in the Super A division went to the Kawartha Kanadians of Lindsay. The Kanadians skated to a 3-1 victory over Rushwood of Oshawa in the championship final at the Haliburton arena.

Paul Young scored twice in the winning effort with Darryl Walton adding the single.

Greg Latin replied for Rushwood.

The Over 30 championship was won by the Overtime Sports Bar of Oshawa by a 2-0 score over the Bobcaygeon Bruins in the final of that division.

Gooderham's Glen Sharpley Sports Imperials skated to a 4-0 victory over the Toronto Stoner Trail Blazers in the Blue Light Over 30 B championship.

Jason Stoughton earned the shutout between the Gooderham pipes.

Tim Hunter scored twice and assisted on the other two markers for the winners. Singles went to Ron MacDuff and Colin Hunter. Jamie Hunter picked up two assists. Colin Hunter and Jeff Hunter had one helper apiece.

C division honours went to Zack's Sharks of Toronto with a 2-1 win over British Empire Fuels of Bobcaygeon.

The Fenelon Hawks shaded Fuzz and Company of Haliburton 3-2 for the D division title.

Two players did all the damage for the winners. Kevin McKenna scored two goals and assisted on the other one while Justin Morrison had one goal and one helper.

Andrew Hodgson and Mike Iles were the sharpshooters for Fuzz and Company. Chris Hodgson (who scored a hat trick in an earlier game), Barry Boice and Joe Roberts had one assist each.

The Newmarket Bruins shaded O'Toole's of Oshawa for the E division championship.

The Minden Devils were 7-4 winners over Nipissing of North Bay for the

Atom B Monrchs force fifth game against Wilberforce

Minden rebounds from 2-0 series deficit to tie Rockets at two games apiece

Down 2-0 in the best-of-five Tri-County atom B finals against Wilberforce, the Minden Monarchs proved their mettle. The Minden squad stormed back to tie the series at 2-2 and force a fifth and deciding game.

Game three of the series saw the Monarchs go to Wilberforce after an exciting trip to Maple Leaf Gardens on Sunday, March 27. The visit to the home of the Toronto Maple Leafs served to spur the Monarchs on as they came home from Wilberforce with a 2-1 win.

After a scoreless first period, Ryan White notched the first goal of the game in the second period to give Minden a 1-0 advantage. David Burns assisted.

The action was end to end and as the Monarchs continued to press, Derek Barnett converted a pass from White to make it 2-0.

Monarch fans rocked the arena in Wilberforce with the excitement of a pending upset.

Minden goaltender Shane Walker stonewalled the Rockets until late in the third when the home team got on the scoreboard to cut Minden's lead to 2-1. That goal didn't shake Walker's confidence nor did it upset the rest of the Monarchs.

Even with a man advantage the Rockets were unable to get the equalizer as Minden held on for the 2-1 win.

Two days later, the Monarchs played host to the Rockets for game four of the series.

Two minutes after the opening faceoff, Mark Hamilton broke loose and scored to give the Monarchs a 1-0 lead. That goal proved to be the game winner as Minden goalie Jeremy Davis played his best game of the season to earn the shutout and preserve the 1-0 victory.

The deciding game took place at the Wilberforce arena on April 1.

The Rockets jumped to an early 2-0 lead with a pair of quick goals in the first period. Wilberforce added one more in the second for a 3-0 advantage.

The Minden crew showed its perseverance, playing to win right to the end.

Barnett gave the Minden fans something to cheer about when he scored to cut the Wilberforce lead to 3-1.

Then, with just a few minutes left in the game, Justin Bull notched the second Minden marker and the Monarchs were within striking distance. Burns assisted on that goal.

The Monarchs kept the pressure up until the final buzzer. But even though they had a few good scoring chances, the Rockets held on for the win, taking the championship three games to two.

Minden coach Kirk Bull said he was very happy with his team's effort, coming back from a two-game deficit to tie the series and force a fifth and deciding game. He commented that they played as a unit and showed good sportsmanship even in defeat and that the players and parents alike should be proud of their accomplishments.

Minor softball season nears

by Jerry Grozelle

You know spring is officially here when the Minden Minor Softball League officials are starting to draw up their schedules for the coming season.

This week marks the final week of registration for the seven divisions of the league. Anyone wanting to play in this fun league has until Friday to make his or her intentions known. After that, teams will be selected and the schedule will be finalized.

There are seven divisions to accommodate boys and girls aged 4 to 16.

Junior T-ball is for the four to five and a half age group. Senior T-ball goes from five to six. The seven-year-olds play five-pitch. The atom division is for eight- and nine year-olds. Ten- and 11-year-olds will play in the squirt division. The peewees are 11 and 12 and the bantam division is for players aged 14 to 16.

The atom division is the most popular so far in this year's registration with more than 70 boys and girls signed up. All of the remaining divisions could stand more players.

As league official Grant Shaw says: "The more the merrier." The older age groups are espe-

The scoring was spread around for the Devils with Dennis McKee, Scott Hamilton, Doug Allison, Jeff Howe, Leni Johnston, Ivan Ingram and Craig Crowe netting one each. Paul Prince helped set up two of those goals while Hamilton, Ingram, Jason Stamp, Doug Schell and Howe assisted on one apiece.

Kevin Morissett notched two for Nipissing with singles going to John Vuksic and Dan Bujold.

The G division final pitted the Little Britain Raiders against the Doctor's Office of Bobcaygeon. The Raiders came out on top in that one by a 5-2 score.

Maximum Ice of Haliburton won the B championship by downing the Minden Rangers 4-1.

Rob Fiorodi, Jamie Dollo, Tom Jack and Rick Mallette were the Haliburton marksmen. Frank Marcello, Matt Rudnicki, Scott Russell and Dollo had one assist each.

Brian Shaw got the only Minden goal, from Kevin Warburton.

The MHL Wolves of North York edged the Lindsay Rebels for the H division title.

Haliburton's Solid Burtch squad thumped Cam-Sport of Newcastle 10-2 to capture the I division championship.

Paul Bromby and Gary Burtch scored two goals each for the Haliburton team, with singles going to Steve Burtch, Rob Jeffries, Jeff Burtch, Greg McFadden, Mike Timmons and Rick Barnum. McFadden, Tim Deremo, Timmons, Johnathan Bishop and Drew Bishop picked up a pair of assists each with single helpers going to Steve Burtch and Kevin Adams.

Rhys Jenkins and Wayne Roberts replied for Cam-Sport.

"I'd like to thank all of the arena managers and staff of all three arenas," Russell said. "They did a super job."

Russell also expressed his appreciation to the wives of the Coby Islanders who helped out with the operation of the tournament.

"Some of them haven't had an Easter dinner in 17 years," he quipped.

And, after 17 years Pat Russell says he is ready to pass the torch on to someone else. He cites "fatigue" as a good reason for his retirement.

Top calibre hockey action

Zack's Sharks of Toronto skated to a 2-1 win over the Bobcaygeon British Empire Fuels team to take the C division championship of the Coby Islanders 17th annual hockey tourn-ament on Easter weekend. This game was played at the Minden Arena on Easter Sunday.

cially in need of more players.

Last year there were 370 players in the league and as of this past weekend, 325 had signed up for the 1994 season.

The Minden ball diamonds will be active Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. If everything goes according to plan, the peewees and five-pitch teams will play Monday evenings. Tuesday will be reserved for the atom and bantam divisions and the squirt and T-ball teams will see action on Thursdays.

Umpires needed

Shaw says there has been a good response from parents who are willing to help out with coaching but there is still a real need for umpires. Anyone interested in helping out on that front should contact Grant Shaw at 286-4240.

Anybody from the age of 14 up is eligible and training will be provided. Shaw stresses that this is a fun league and that applies to the umpires as well. He said he would especially like to see some seniors participate as umpires.

Business group identifies goals

by Dale Merrill

The Village of Minden is experiencing some positive changes. Last week's Times editorial made mention of many of the improvements taking place in the downtown core. and the good news is the changes are expanding to include the entire Minden area.

A new association of Minden and area business people is currently being formed. The rapidly expanding group has held several inspiring meetings over the past few months, and due to the excellent response in attendance and attitude, has decided to proceed with plans to elect a board of directors and finalize the formation of the association. These elections are scheduled to be held at the next general meeting.

Through the discussion of members' concerns, the association has arrived at the conclusion that there are three main goals the group will be working toward.

The first priority of the association is the concern for improved signage for the town, to attract the attention of travellers on Highway 35.

The second priority is the concern for defined and consistent business hours, to attract cottagers and area consumers into the town.

The third, but certainly not the least important, goal is to form a liaison with other organizations working with them to benefit all parties.

The association feels by taking positive action on these concerns, they can help create a healthier business climate for Minden and its surrounding area.

The next meeting of the association has been slated for Sunday April 17 at 7 p.m. at the Red Umbrella Inn on Highway 35. The association is extending an open invitation to any business and/or professional people who have an interest in joining a progressive, positive thinking group with a common goal--making Minden and its surrounding area a preferred destination for cottagers and local residents alike.

The official name of this new group has been chosen and it will hereafter be known as the Minden and Area Business Association.

All those who have attended past meetings and anyone interested in getting on board are urged to attend the next general meeting. Founders of the association are anticipating a large turnout, judging by the positive feedback which has been received so far.

Ceramics shop finds a new home

Highlands Ceramics has a new home.

The popular craft store has moved to the corner of Main Street and south Water Street, next to Vasey Insurance.

Paul Borczak, the owner and operator of the store is pleased with the new location and with the growth his business has experienced in the year it has been in operation.

Highlands Ceramics supplies customers with ceramic green ware and the necessary items to finish the projects. Some of the items are manufactured on the premises from moulds which Paul has available, while other designs are available as finished green ware, ready for painting and firing.

"This is a creative and productive process that people find relaxing and enjoyable," Paul said as a group prepared to leave following an afternoon class. "Many of the people who take up this hobby are involved because they enjoy making something that they can use around the house, or to give as a gift. But, they also enjoy the social contact which the workshops provide. They are meeting new people, getting away from their usual routines."

The finishing of a ceramic piece is relatively easy, Paul explained, and with a little training and experience, individuals can quickly advance to more complex designs. "This is not a hobby that requires special skills," Paul said. "The only thing required is patience."

Paul and friends

Paul Borczak with some of the many ceramic designs available at the new location of Highlands Ceramics.

Paul said the ceramics classes have been growing in popularity. Those taking part have spanned a variety of ages from 13 to senior citizens. This summer he plans to expand the classes to include cottagers who may just be here for a couple of weeks and who are looking for a diversion during their holidays.

For the moment, however, Paul is busy with spring classes and settling into his new location.

March weather

by Ron Mackenzie for Phil Graham

March first came in like a lamb with a high temperature of -0.5 degrees and beautiful sunny skies. This March was fairly average as Marches go. A bit more rain, a bit less snow and a bit colder than March 1993.

This month we experienced only six days of temperatures colder than -18 C (O F) and 25 days when the mercury reached 0 C (32 F). With an even mix of sun and cloud (14 days of each) and slightly colder temperatures, the snow is lasting a little longer this year. However, the robins are back and the Green lake swan has moved on to its summer home, so spring must indeed be here.

Somerville Reeve balks at Bill 120

by John Huke, Somerville Reeve

Counties, Regions and Townships are urged by the Province to have Official Plans and Zoning By-laws in order to control the use of land and implementation of services. The cost is tremendous, not only in the initial stages of creating the zoning by-law as an example, but in the time your elected officials and staff must spend with the implementation of the sections of the by-law.

The present provincial government has introduced Bill 120, which allows apartments to be established just about anywhere. Fire safety, sewage sanitation facilities and parking (to name only four) are completely ignored. This bill does not allow the local municipality to enforce its Zoning By-law.

We believe the Bill has great merit in allowing much needed housing for the elderly and those who just cannot afford to move away from Mom and Dad and other family related situations.

We are disturbed, however, as are all municipalities, that our Zoning By-laws are completely ignored by the Bill.

You and your neighbours could have a nice quiet street with uncluttered properties and overnight you now have the house next door with two new families and three more automobiles parking front of your house. Your snow may not be ploughed as usual because your new neighbours' cars are obstructing the truck's path. You may experience rather bad odours next summer because the septic next door is not adequate and needs pumping but no one has the "bucks" to pay! Your husband may be a part time fireman who now risks the possibility of entering a burning basement apartment with only one exit.

These are only a few of the examples of what could, and will, happen with no local control.

Call your newly elected Member of Provincial Parliament and ask him to have the Zoning By-law put back into this Bill.

Chamber seeks new logo and image for the Haliburton Highlands

Spring is here and it is time to get those creative juices flowing!

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce has announced a logo design contest to find a bright, new identity for the county.

In keeping with the Chamber's recently developed plans for improved marketing, the concept of a new logo was agreed upon, and the idea of a contest enthusiastically supported by the marketing committee.

"We have been considering the idea for some time and have had lots of discussions about it. In reality, who knows what an area's all about better than the people who live there?" says marketing committee chair Andy Salvatori.

It is no secret how many outstanding artists there are in the Highlands and the marketing people think these people should be given the first opportunity to illustrate their impressions.

"The Chamber is organizing some great marketing things and we want a whole new identity to pull it all together," said Salvatori.

The new logo must adhere to some basic design rules for reproduction purposes, and aside from three content requirements, the contest is wide open for interpretation.

The parameters of the contest are:

(1) The logo must be drawn in black and white on an 8 x 10 piece of artboard--no submissions on paper please;

(2) The design must include the following words:

Haliburton Highlands
Closer than you think!
1-800-461-7677

(3) Emphasis should be placed on the phone number.

(4) The submission must be such that it can be easily reproduced very small or very large.

(5) The contest is open to any permanent or seasonal resident of Haliburton County.

(6) Deadline for submissions is April 29, 1994.

Submissions can be delivered to the Chamber office on Highway 35 in Minden. All entries become the property of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce. Prize will be four tickets to a 1994 Blue Jays game and media recognition of the winning artist and logo.

The winner will be announced Friday, May 13, 1994.

Chamber weathers a budgetary storm

Chamber

by Carol Moffatt

Sometimes it rains on your parade and there's not a darn thing you can do about it.

In the Chamber's case, County Council's recent 1994 budget announcement wasn't just an untimely shower, it was a devastating flood - especially after the success of the Trails & Tours network grant from the provincial government and the outstanding results of the Techni-Cal Challenge video by TSN.

Unfortunately, Council had little room for manoeuvering in this budget and the resultant decision not to increase the Chamber's funding will have a serious impact on the Chamber's dramatic and aggressive plans for the future of tourism in this county.

For council, it's been a no-win year. The county coffers are empty and everyone points an accusing finger at everyone else. Choices had to be made, departments have been slashed and jobs have been lost. Necessities like roads and sewage have been left intact, and understandably so: why invite guests to the county when the roads might be lousy or the sewage system unable to handle the influx?

In comparison to these realities some may say the Chamber is lucky it wasn't cut off completely and left to its own devices.

The concept of the Chamber's financial self-sufficiency has been discussed many times by many people. It's a good idea worth considering, but it can't happen overnight. Until such a transition is ever seriously considered, decided upon and implemented, it is important to truly understand how paramount marketing and membership support is today, right now, this summer, for a tourism-oriented area like Haliburton County.

In simple terms, people can't come to Haliburton and spend money if they don't know where we are or what we offer. To do that, someone must advertise, attend tourism shows, publish brochures and focus on specific markets. That someone is the Chamber. To do this requires money and manpower - preferably volunteer manpower.

Keeping in mind that Haliburton County is a great place with lots to offer, in return for the above, people will come to Haliburton, resorts will be full, shops will have customers and contractors will be busy. To fulfill the needs of all these tourists, staff will have to be hired and a lot more people will have jobs.

It's easy to scoff and say this is wishful, utopian thinking. But Muskoka does it. Parry Sound does it. What about Haliburton? Perhaps this county can't do it because there has always been a "fee for service" contract between the Chamber and County Council which allows the latter to hold the purse strings. Maybe it's because volunteers rallied to save the Chamber from complete collapse only two years ago and it's just now getting back on it's feet. Or maybe it's because so many people can't seem to understand that money makes money and, just like in the movie Field of Dreams: "If you build it they will come."

If the county's image is built, it's presence increased and if it is widely known that the Highlands is open for business, "they" will come. People want to go places and spend money, but they don't come to the Highlands because no one fights for this county's rightful place on the toursim map.

An advertising dollar packs a bigger wallop when spread out over the greatest number of people available, yet in this county, only 250 of over 700 eligible businesses are members of the Chamber of Commerce. Everyone wants the biggest bang for their buck but few are willing to get out and help do something about it.

In the world of tourism advertising where flash and fancy wins the prize, Haliburton is a dowdy old maid in a tartan dress. She's a real gem, but she's disorganized, out of date and desperately in need of a face lift. The details of that face lift were recently announced with the Chamber's Strategic Plan. Between this year's budget and a startlingly apathetic membership there's barely enough money to

TENDER

Tenders are currently being sought to modify the rear interior of a 14' cube van so that it may safely store and transport toys, books and equipment as part of C.H.A.C.E.'s new Mobile Family Outreach Program.

This program is made possible by a financial contribution from the Community Action Program for Children, Health and Welfare Canada, in agreement with the Province of Ontario and through the sponsorship of S.I.R.C.H. Inc.

For design specifics, please contact Sue Valm, Executive Director, C.H.A.C.E. Inc., 457-2989. Deadline for Tenders, April 22, 1994.

The lowest bid not necessarily accepted.

get the old tartan dress cleaned, never mind help with the rest.

Never mind the successful Business to Business receptions or the membership drive currently being designed to illustrate why people should join up. Never mind the pro golf tourney slated for this summer - the Chamber's first tenative step toward raising it's own money that would have the likes of Dave Andrechuck and his Leaf pals drawing a big crowd and a big dollar.

Never mind the ongoing costs of fishing, sports and leisure shows in Pickering, Ottawa and Toronto at which the county should be represented. Or the dreadful condition of the photo library that accompanies the booth to these shows and provides potential tourists with their first impression of the county.

Never mind the white water kayaking video with TSN that is supposed to follow up the sled dog video that will have 700 million viewers.

Never mind the co-operative snowmobile ads planned in the lucrative U.S. market or the CHAY FM live remote shows scheduled at 17 county events this summer.

This isn't just talk or good intentions. The research for all these campaigns has been done. The arrangements have been made and the details are being finalized. Or are they? Chances are, the money from council will barely keep the infocentre open - and even then, not on weekends. The Chamber can't afford it and no one else wants to do it.

So forget the plans for Seniors Week, the direct mail campaign for out-of-town snowmobilers, the Telemedia Sports Network radio ads that would be heard by thousands of Blue Jays fans all across Ontario. Forget the sprucing up of the Infocentre, the Maple Syrup Festival, the Spring Studio Tour or the new logo and slogan that would bring the county into the 90s.

Instead of getting a running start with well-spent funding, the Chamber must re-group and look toward events like the golf tournament to raise money. But instead of donating some of the profits to the hospital fund, as was planned, the Chamber will have to keep everything to try to move ahead with this year's plans next year.

This year, when people demand, "Why should I join the Chamber, what do they do for me?" the answer, unfortuantely, will be "We're working on it" instead of a confident "Let me show you the list."

Work will continue on implementing the Strategic Plan, but without increased county funding and only marginally increasing membership it will be a longer haul than anticipated. The losers will be area businesses and residents.

The Chamber of Commerce should be a strong, united driving force of business people and residents whose common goal is to work toward getting as many people as possible into this county to spend money. The current Chamber can do this, but the same 30-odd people can't continue to shoulder the load. All hands will be needed on deck to get through the year and if ever there was a time when the Chamber needed members, support, volunteers and rallying, this is it.

HHSS Drama Club dons both masks

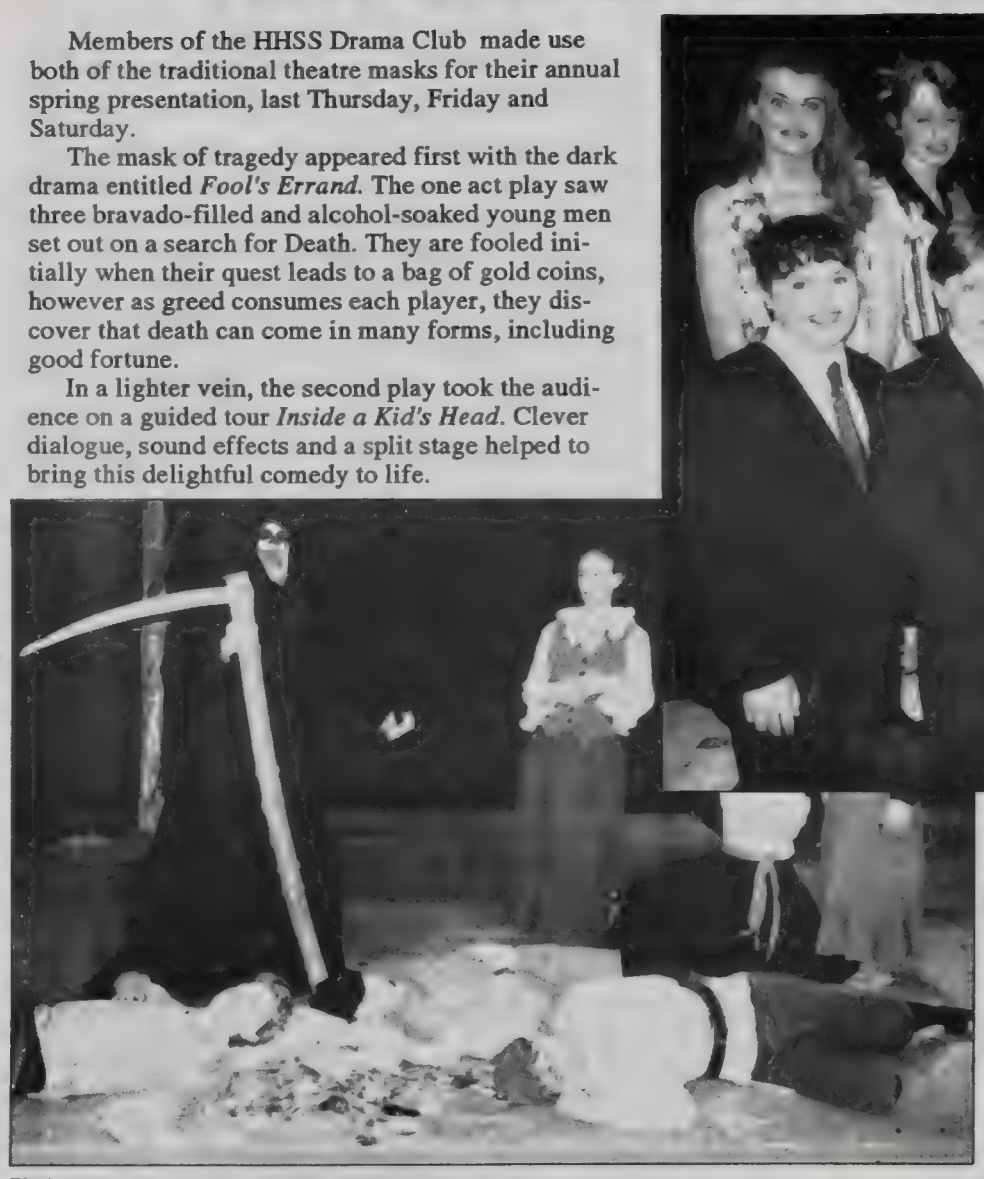
Members of the HHSS Drama Club made use both of the traditional theatre masks for their annual spring presentation, last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The mask of tragedy appeared first with the dark drama entitled Fool's Errand. The one act play saw three bravado-filled and alcohol-soaked young men set out on a search for Death. They are fooled initially when their quest leads to a bag of gold coins, however as greed consumes each player, they discover that death can come in many forms, including good fortune.

In a lighter vein, the second play took the audience on a guided tour Inside a Kid's Head. Clever dialogue, sound effects and a split stage helped to bring this delightful comedy to life.



Death delights in its harvest, as the three young men who went to search it out discovered their own mortality in Fool's Errand, left. Cast members include, Marc Letourneau, Kerry Brezina, Bob Sisson, Luke Talaba, Jessica Berry, Bryn Gray and Alison Lillius.

Above, the cast that took the audience Inside a Kid's Head, from the left, front row, Brianne Hewitt, Ryan Smith, Morgan Talaba (the kid whose head they toured), Dori Burke, Katie Rodley and Cassie Weyrich; back row, Tanya Berry, Meggan Winsley, Sarah Doyle, Rachel Levis, Maggie Pay, Tom O'Shaughnessy, Kevin Brezina and Randy Smith.

Katie Rodley sang a musical selection accompanied by Bryn Gray on the piano following the intermission. The plays were directed by Sarah Levis with staff adviser Bob Penfold.

Water: the second time around

Processed water from sewage holding ponds is used to irrigate and fertilize farm fields

Reflections
by David Suzuki

Exploding human pressure on the planet creates complex and multi-layered problems and now the entire planet is carved up into different levels of government and bureaucratic divisions. But our needs and perceptions are meaningless to the real world of air, water, soil and other living things.

Take Water. Fresh water is crucial to our lives and circulates around the planet in a complex cycle we don't full understand. So our policies should be dictated by the biophysical principles that govern clouds, rivers, watersheds and underground aquifers.

Different layers of government are also hopelessly tunnel visioned as they jealously guard their bureaucratic turf. Again, water is a good example of how our thinking is blinkered and limited. We demand high quality water at our taps and yet we ingest very little of it.

Most water is used to flush toilets or wash cars, manufacture products, water lawns and gardens and irrigate farms. Once we use water, we generally collect it as waste water that must be treated and disposed, usually into rivers, lakes or oceans. This is a water problem for health and sanitation.

On the other hand, a lot of water is used for irrigation which falls under agriculture. Farms using large scale irrigation are a very costly way to grow food. California's vaunted agri-business consumes most of the state's water and has required a vast network of pipes, ditches, river diversions and dams to supply the farmers. Now there are major problems of salination of soil, chemical contamination of ground water and depletion of water resources.

In an arid area like the Middle East, water is literally a matter of life and death. Here underground watersheds and aquifers often extend across national boundaries so that one country's dams, sewage disposal, irrigation practices and deep wells profoundly affect another's. This water has global political implications.

King Hussein of Jordan has stated that the only reason his country would go to war with Israel would be over water. The Golan Heights are strategic because they border on the Sea of Galilee, which is a major source of water for Israel.

There is a large fresh water aquifer under the west bank and now that it is occupied, most of it is pumped and used by Israel. Ethnic and religious tension make water a contentious issue.

In Tel Aviv, Shalu Streit, director of Israel's sewage project has cut across bureaucracy with an "agri-sanitary approach to water. First of all, remember that we are animals who take food and water in one end and eliminate if from the other. For any urban population, that human waste is a major disposal problem challenge for sanitary engineers. On the other hand, Israel's farmers face a chronic shortage of water and must compete with domestic and industrial users for the limited supply.

Streit's solution? Use sewage that is a sanitary "problem" as a "solution" for agriculture by using the water again. Streit took me to the sewage holding ponds that are his pride and joy.

The only time I noticed an unpleasant odour was when I stood on top of the pumping station that screens the raw sewage before sending it into the large holding pond. There the sewage contents are attacked by microorganisms that don't need oxygen. Then the mix is pumped into the second pond in which machines stir and aerate the water so the oxygen-requiring organisms can break the sewage down further. Remarkably, there is no nasty smell around the ponds and there are plenty of birds and turtles cavorting in them.

A kibbutz near the sewage treatment ponds has a contract to use all of the processed water. It is pumped through self-cleaning filters and applied to the fields through a series of plastic tubes that allow water to drip directly onto the plant.

This avoids the massive evaporation of spray irrigation and salination of the soil from over-saturation. Although the water is not potable, by the time it reaches the plant roots, pathogens have been effectively removed and the water poses no human hazard. A major bonus is that the nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium from human wastes are a very rich fertilizer for the plants.

As Sandra Postel reports in Last Oasis (W.W. Norton & Co.), "By using municipal water supplies twice--once for domestic use and again for irrigation--would-be pollutants become valuable fertilizers, rivers and lakes are protected from contamination, the irrigated land boosts crop production and the reclaimed water becomes a reliable local supply."

Israel already reuses 70 percent of its sewage for agriculture and aims to have treated sewage as the source of 16 percent of all water used by the end of the century.

Necessity IS the mother of invention in Israel where water is such a scarce commodity. But even in a water-rich country like Canada, we should be far more creative by looking at water as part of a total system rather than a series of bureaucratic subdivisions.

Family Matters

by Kinark Staff

The Times is pleased to introduce a new column to our pages dealing with problems encountered in raising a family. Peter Moore the Director of the Haliburton Program for Kinark and Family Services and his professional staff will provide advice as they respond to questions asked by readers in the service area. If you would like to pose a question about your family, children, parents or yourself and your relationship with others, write: Family Matters, c/o The Times, Box 97 Minden, Ontario K0M 2K0.

Q: How can we encourage our nine year old boy to be more assertive around the house and to willingly do the chores that we expect of him? We have tried rewards as well as punishment. Nothing seems to inspire him.

A: By "assertive" it appears you want your son to take the initiative to do his chores. It may be helpful to keep in mind that all of us--particularly children--like to work, if by "work" we mean completing tasks we enjoy and being praised for our accomplishments. Similarly, none of us enjoys doing work we don't like.

You may be frustrating yourself by expecting your son to enjoy what he doesn't like doing! Here are a few tips: first, make sure some of his chores include things he likes to do, even if they don't seem much like chores to you. Second, you need to find a true motivator; a well structured and consistent reward system generally works much better than punishment. At nine years of age, your son can be part of the decision making about what a good reward might be. Finally, make sure you stick with it. If your child decides not to do his chores (and not get his reward), don't nag him to do the chore anyway: this only sets up an argument and power struggle rather than teaching him self discipline, which is the ultimate goal of getting a child to do chores.

Q: I am a single mother. My child has started to ask if he has a daddy and who he is. There has been no contact between the child and the father. Is there an appropriate age at which they should be told?

A: Children generally become aware of themselves as social beings around the age of four. It is at this stage that they begin to compare themselves to others and to understand differences. They convey this to people who know them by asking more questions about others and noticing more differences.

Since every child has two parents, it is important for your child to know that he/she is no different than other children. If you have a personal history of your child's father, it would be a good idea to tell the story and show pictures if you have them. Age four is a good time to start this information sharing, although questions asked at an earlier age can be answered simply and in language they can understand.

Books which describe different families will help them feel confidence; that single families are okay and can offer love like two parent families can. These books can be ordered from Parent Books in Toronto (416) 537-8334.

Q: Sometimes I get so frustrated with my teenage son I have trouble controlling my emotions. What should I do?

A: Remember that every parent feels like this at times with their teenagers. If you feel the problems are truly serious and constant, you should seek counselling for your family. However, in the meantime, try to get time--even a few minutes--away from your son, to cool off. Try not to say things you'll regret, as these can be hard to forget later. And, when making decisions, (What time shoulkd I be home from the party?) negotiate a solution. This will help your son feel like an equal and teach him a valuable skill.

The opinions and answers offered in this column are not intended to be complete answers to the questions raised and therefore the ideas suggested here may not be fully applicable to your family's circumstances. For assistance with specific problems, readers are welcome to call Kinark Child and Family Services, 457-2555.

In Harmony entertains at Hyland Crest

Senior League
by Winnifred Barnum

Saturday, March 26 the "In Harmony" group came to sing and play for us. There were six ladies. They played guitars and one played piano. They all sang in harmony and it was really delightful. Thanks you Toos Reid, Rose Barry, Barb Trocewiecz, Lisa Kowalchuk, Gaye Botticella and Barb Fawcett, please come again soon.

Sunday afternoon Estella Burch read more of the book she is reading to us. It is a big book and all fascinating. Thank you Estella.

Sunday evening, Rev. John Burgess gave the chapel service. He spoke on the Passover and Louise Leonard played the organ. Thank you from our hearts.

On Monday a video was shown in the Primrose Lounge for the residents and the Hyland Crest Auxiliary meeting was held in the auditorium.

Tuesday morning chapel service conducted by Louise Leonard, gave a helpful message concerning the events leading up to Easter Sunday. Thank you Louise.

In crafts in the afternoon we made small rabbit heads to pin on the residents at Easter. In the evening, Corinne came to set up a couple of table of euchre and then Theresa helped us as Corinne had another commitment. Thank you both for your interest.

Wednesday afternoon, Pearl Cowen organized games in the auditorium for residents who wished to play. Her helpers were Jeanne Sears, Freda Hulbig, Mary Wilson and Mabel Deacon. It was an enjoyable afternoon and we thank them sincerely.

For some time now the corridor walls have been in the process of being painted as well as the Trillium Lounge. Ken Anderson, a resident, has painted a stencil design on parts of the corridor walls. It has put a pleasing touch to the plain walls.

Thursday we had a full afternoon with the weekly tea party. A March birthday party and Easter turkey draw was held at the same time. The tea was provided by the ladies of the Orange Lodge who were as follows: Mary Cox, Gladys Rosewreath and Marge Coulter. Volunteer helpers were Pat Scott and Nancy Cook. A table was set up for those who had birthdays in March: Fern Weldon on March 11; Thomas Brown on March 5 and Gordon Kent also on March 5. Many happy returns.

A draw was held at the tea party for an Easter basket of artificial flowers donated by a resident's family. The winner was Arthur Forbes. Tickets were drawn for thee hams and two turkeys and the winners were: Hams - Elaine Barjarow, Rob Croft and Pearl Cowen. Turkeys - Audrey Trumbull and Pat Scott. Congratulations to all the winners. Proceeds from this draw go to the resident council to be given to the special care activity fund for a screened area for the special care unit.

Kathy Woods called bingo for us on Thursday evening for which we thank her.

Friday the Easter bunny and friend paid us a visit in the afternoon, passing out Easter eggs to everyone.

Stannworth Court news

White gives way to green

Residents here at Staanworth Court can finally look our their windows and see a bit of green - such a welcome sight after the mounds of white. The arrival of the last four folks from the south could convince us that spring is really here and it's even time to think about barbecuing.

The return of Jean and Harry Cowen from Florida wasn't a too pleasant one as Jean was in hospital for a week. We are all happy that she is recovering and now is at home.

Mark and Carrie Vasey enjoyed a day at the races" on Mark's birthday. We didn't have any report of a big win but they did have a pleasant time. We are very grategul to the members of our local Lions Club for their donation of a wheel chair. It is one of those items we need to have handy and we certainly send a big thanks you to all Lions.

The "Bulls Eye List" of our darts club has been increased by three this year - Margaret Horsely, Carrie Vasey and Shirley (I see better without my glasses) Hewitt, all managed the high score - the rest of us are happy to have a dart stick on the board.

Another of our residents, Jean Marsh, has just entered a Toronto hospital for surgery. Our thoughts and prayers are with you Jean.

If you stroll along our halls these evenings you will be able to hear the Blue Jay fans - so far, just cheering.

Did you know that an optimist may be wrong just as often as a pessimist - but the optimist has more fun!

IN MEMORIAM

ALTON: Leslie - In loving memory of a dear papa, dad and husband who passed away December 6, 1991 and remembering his birthday April 13.
He left us quietly
His thoughts unknown
But left us a memory
We are proud to own.
So treasure him Lord,
In your Garden of Rest
For when on earth
He was one of the best.
Sadly missed but never fogotten by son-in-law Don, daughter Kelly, grandsons Shane and Nathen Flowersmith and wife Lillian.
